Arizona's Top Lobbyist Selection

Veridus Director, Wendy Briggs, Tops the List

(Phoenix, Arizona) – Veridus proudly announced today, the selection of its Director, Wendy Briggs, as one of the top lobbyists in Arizona. Calling Briggs one of the most “tenacious” advocates for her clients, The Arizona Capitol Times cited Briggs’s depth of character and knowledge of important issues as what makes her a “stand out” in the lobbying community.

Briggs was selected by her peers as one of Arizona’s top women lobbyists. The list also includes, Susie Stevens, Kristen Boilini, Barb Meaney and Janna Day.

“I am honored by the support and this recognition. We started Veridus with the goal of producing big wins for our clients with our team of exceptional professionals-- this type of recognition tells me we are doing a good job and makes me proud to be part of our great team at Veridus,” Director Wendy Briggs said.

President and CEO of Arizona Hospital and Healthcare Association, Laurie Liles said, “I’ve always admired the professionalism and equanimity Wendy Briggs brings to her work.”

Briggs’s peers continued their comments about her reputation. Richard Foreman with Southwest Gas commented, “I have always found Wendy to be a tireless advocate for her clients, as well as a delight to work with.”

Wendy Briggs said, “I guess a lot of my effectiveness has to do with being honest and telling both sides of any issue.” She continued, “It’s really just being sincere and working well with people – and frankly it is quite a compliment to be included on the same list as Barb, Susie, Janna and Kristen -- they embody the best of our profession.”
